Three Trainmen Killed in Wreck Of "Cape Codder"

Two Other Trainmen Seriously Injured and 150 Passengers Shaken Up When Boiler of Locomotive Bursts Wrecking Freight Express.

Kingston, R. I., June 26.—Three trainmen were killed, two were seriously injured, and 150 passengers were shaken up and bruised early today when the boiler of a locomotive drawing a New Bedford, Mass., to New London, Conn., freight train over the main line of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad exploded and wrecked the "Cape Codder," crack summer-time express, New York for Hyannis, Mass.

The dead:

W. J. Moulton, of Providence, R. I., engineer of the freight locomotive.

John J. Mulvaney, of Providence, R. I., fireman aboard the freight locomotive.

George C. Hathaway, of Padanaram, Mass., head brakeman of the freight train.

The seriously injured:

Charles Bennett, of New Haven, Conn., fireman of the express locomotive.

Chester Frazier, of New York, engineer of the express locomotive.

Express Hit Freight Cars.

The explosion tore a hole in the road bed and threw on the air brakes of the freight train, derailing several freight cars in the path of the "Cape Codder" on the adjoining track.

The express locomotive struck these freight cars and, carrying the first pullman sleeper, slipped off the rails and plunged down a small embankment. Both turned over on their sides. Three other pullmans were derailed by remained upright. Five other cars of the nine car express did not leave the rails.

The "Cape Codder" on her maiden trip of the year was running through the swampy country at Kenyon when she was derailed.

The cause of the boiler explosion is under investigation.

An Unusual Mishap.

The explosion and wreck was the most unusual in the history of the railroad.

Engineer Frazier of the express train taken to Westerly Hospital said he was making between forty and fifty miles an hour on a clear track before dawn when he came abreast of the freight train. There was a sudden [illegible] of brakes on the freight and [illegible] Frazier could throw on his emergency brakes the dark mass loomed up in front of him. This was freight cars which had been [illegible] from the adjoining track by [illegible] throwing on of the emergency brakes with the bursting of the locomotive boiler.

Bodies of the dead trainmen were tossed into the swamp.

Passengers Asleep.

Passengers on the express were all asleep at the time of the crash. Many of them were women and children, bound to Cape Cod for the summer or week end. In sleeping garments the passengers fled or were assisted from the derailed pullmans. Many shrieked for help and their cries drowned the howl of escaping steam from the torn boiler. Some of the passengers were just shaken up but others were cut by glass or bruised by being thrown from their berths. Some of the women fainted but were soon revived.

The explosion of the boiler ripped open the freight locomotive cab, sending the occupants in all directions.

There were sixty freight cars attached to the freight train locomotive.

Traffic was tied up on the main line for hours.

The scene of the disaster is known as "The Great Dismal Swamp" and is rich in Indian history lore.

First Trip of Season.

This was the first trip of the season of the "Cape Codder," which is used mainly by New Yorkers to travel to their summer homes on Cape Cod, Massachusetts.

As soon as a temporary telephone wire was rigged up news of the wreck was flashed to Providence and a wrecking crew was rushed here.

The "Cape Codder" was made up of nine pullman sleeping cars and it was shortly after 3 a. m. this morning when the sleeping passengers were tossed from their berths.

The "Cape Codder" was just about to pass the Newbedford freight locomotive when the explosion shook the countryside.

The boiler of the freight locomotive was torn out. The debris fell in the path of the oncoming express.

The first work of rescuers was to take those imprisoned in the first pullman, which had been dragged from the rails with the express locomotive.

Physicians and nurses, hurried to the scene of the wreck from Providence and Westerly, set up temporary first aid stations to care for those cut and bruised.

The "Cape Codder" carried between 100 and 200 passengers, some of them being women and children bound for New England's summer playground on Cape Cod.

Steel Cars Prevented Fire.

The fact that the pullman cars were made of steel prevented fire, which would have caused a heavy loss of life.

Passengers treated at the scene and in need of farther medical treatment were put aboard relief trains and carried to Providence. Others were taken to Westerly.

The scene of the wreck was at Kenyon, a village between Kingston, the home of the Rhode Island State Agriculture College, and the village of Shannock. This is on the New Haven Railroad's main line between New York and Boston.

City Hidden Under Mantle Of Darkness

Heavy Clouds Compel Lighting of Business Places and Houses—Autos Lighted on Streets—Downpour Resembled Cloudburst.

For fully a quarter of an hour Kingston was covered by a mantle of darkness shortly before 11 o'clock this morning, as heavy, black, rain-laden clouds swept over the city, casting a pall of blackness that made the streets almost as dark as midnight.

In business places and in homes it was necessary to turn on electric or gas lights, and in the streets practically every motorist found it desirable if not absolutely necessary to turn on the automobile lights.

While residents were wondering how long the darkness would continue there was a sudden clap of thunder followed by lightning that seemed to tear a wide streak in the mass of clouds and which was followed by a miniature cloudburst.

In a very few minutes the streets resembled miniature rivers. Lower Broadway and the Strand were flooded with water to the depth of several inches as the big sewer outlets were unable to cope with the quantity of water that flowed down the Broadway hill.

While Kingston has often been shrouded in darkness by heavy storm clouds during the late afternoon, today was the first in the memory of many that the city was hidden in blackness during the morning hours.

It was rather a weird sight to stand safely within doors and watch the sheets of water that fell, while the only illumination was afforded by the electric lights in the buildings that lined the streets, which cast fitful beams of light through the darkness that almost hid the streets from sight.

For ten minutes the rain fell with unabated fury. At the height of the storm hail stones clattered against the windows, and then almost as suddenly as the storm had broken over the city the heavy rainfall subsided and was followed by a gentle fall of rain.

The dense darkness that gripped the city was dispelled by the heavy rainfall and was succeeded by a dull gray overcast sky. Fortunately the electric power was not shut off during the darkness and it was not necessary to stop work in offices and buildings equipped with electric lights.

The towns of Rosendale and New Paltz were also gripped by the severe storm that swept over Kingston this morning but as far as could be ascertained the storm did no damage. While hail stones fell in Kingston, none fell in that vicinity and there was very little lightning.

St. John's Church Sale Meets With Approval

Diocesan Committee Favors Sale of Wall Street Church Property to Frank Forman For the Sum of $110,000—Church and Parish House Will Be Removed to Carter Property On Albany Avenue.

Deep, dark mystery surrounds the outcome of the meeting held Friday in New York city before the standing committee of the Diocese of New York on the application for its consent to sell the St. John's Church property on Wall street, for which an offer of $110,000 has been made.

The meeting, which was scheduled to be held at the office of the secretary of the committee, George Zabriskie, 49 Wall street, at 11:30 o'clock Friday morning, evidently was held, although the Rev. Mr. Knapp, rector of St. John's Church, refused to give any information to a reporter as to whether the meeting had been held or as to whether he had been in attendance. Mr. Knapp would neither confirm nor deny that the meeting had been held, who had been in attendance or whether he had been in attendance. To all questions he stated that he could not say and would have to await until the committee was heard from.

Attempt to get in communication with members of the vestry to learn the outcome of the meeting failed, several of the members being out of town or unable to be reached, or had no knowledge of what transpired at the meeting.

From another source it was reported that there was a meeting with the standing committee as scheduled and that the opinion of the committee was favorable to the sale. It was also stated that the bishop was of the opinion that "there was nothing else to do".

An offer was made some time ago by Frank Forman of $110,000 for the lot on Wall street now occupied by the church and parish house. The plan, if successful in getting permission for the sale of the property, is to move the church and parish house to the Carter property at 209 Albany avenue.

The vestry of the church held a meeting early in June, attended by the Rev. Mr. Knapp, rector, and more than two-thirds of the members of the vestry, and at that meeting it was voted to sell the property to Mr. Forman and to make application to the standing committee of of the Diocese of New York for consent to sell.

Won't Recognize Old Licenses

Motorists Must Get New Licenses Before July 1 In Order to Be Spared Summons by Police.

Albany, June 26.—Licenses of automobile operators and chauffeurs issued for the year ending June 30, will not be recognized by the police of the state on July 1 or thereafter, and they will not authorize holders to drive on the Fourth of July. Motorists who are arranging to spend the coming holidays in the open should renew at once their driving licenses so they will be spared the annoyance of a summons and possible fine for operating a car without a license.

All issuing offices are equipped with adequate forces to supply new licenses without delay if applications are made now. Commissioner Charles A. Harnett has accorded motor drivers all accommodations possible, but belated applicants who wait until the last day to obtain licenses may be confronted with a tedious delay in the last-minute rush or be compelled to forego the pleasure of using their cars on July 1.

License renewal is required of all drivers. Confusion and discomfort will be avoided if applications for new licenses are made at once.

The cabinet listened with great attention while M. Caillaux gave a lengthy outline of his plans for financial reform, and there was no doubt left in their mind that he intends a stern course and if there is any attempt to deviate from his program, he will immediately resign.

Says Evangelist Was in Tucson

B. F. Greenwood Claims He Saw Mrs. McPherson in Tucson Three Weeks Ago—Will Preach Sunday at Angelus Temple.

On Board the Golden State Limited, enroute to Los Angeles, June 26.—Aimee Semple McPherson was in Tucson, Arizona, weeks ago, according to B. F. Greenwood, building inspector of Tucson, who boarded the train at Tucson early today and pointed out the noted evangelist as the woman he saw.

"If it wasn't you it was your twin sister," said Greenwood.

"You realize," said Mrs. McPherson, "that you are making a very grave statement."

"I do," said Greenwood.

Mrs. McPherson, a noted evangelist, was found in Agua Prieta, Mexico, after a search had been made for her since May 18. She said she had been kidnapped while bathing in the surf at Ocean Park, Los Angeles.

Captain of Detectives Herman Cline of Los Angeles also spoke to Greenwood and told him of the gravity of the statement he made. After a short pause, Greenwood said: "If it was not you I saw it was your twin sister."

Greenwood said he saw Mrs. McPherson on the Tucson street three weeks ago. He said that the woman he saw had auburn hair, but he identified her more by the eyes than anything else, he said.

Mrs. McPherson herself took part in the interrogation of the building inspector. She asked him if the person he saw had a "upturned nose" and turned her head so that he might have a profile view of her own face."

Mrs. McPherson displayed nervousness during the interview, clasping and unclasping her hands.

Reports that a shack similar to that described by Mrs. McPherson had been located south of the border were to be investigated today.

Three excursions over the border, two of them headed by Mrs. McPherson personally, failed to find any trace of the cabin or to reveal any clue to the abductors.

"I will be in the pulpit at Angelus Temple Sunday," Mrs. McPherson announced.

Mrs. McPherson is working upon the sermon she expects to preach Sunday at Angelus Temple which, she said will be a "resurrection sermon" in which she will tell "how the Lord preserved me for my people."

Mrs. McPherson was visibly affected by Greenwood's statement. After his departure from the train, she talked for several minutes and called attention to the possibility of Greenwood being mistaken. She also reiterated her former statement that she had not been in Tucson except while passing through on a train.

"You must realize," she said, "that I am fighting for my life."

Will Probe Dry League War Chest Of 35 Millions

Wheeler Agrees to Furnish Records of Anti-Saloon League From 1917—New York Spent $1,927,060—Committee Refuses to Keep Contributors' Names Secret.

Washington, June 26.—A sweeping investigation of the $35,000,000 "war chest" used by the Anti-Saloon League of America to write prohibition into the Constitution was assured today when the Senate "Slush Fund" Committee called for the league's financial records for every year since 1917.

The request was made of Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the league, by Senator Reed, (D.) of Missouri, chairman. The records, which the committee will examine, include all contributions, subscriptions, the payroll of the national organization and the campaign and educational expenditures for the last ten years.

"I want the financial records for every year since the league began its national campaign to put the prohibition amendment in the Constitution," said Reed.

Wheeler agreed to furnish the documents.

"The committee desires a list of all the contributions to your organization," Reed added, "and a list of all subscriptions which exceeded $500. We also want your national pay roll for the same years and a complete record of all money sent into the various states for campaign purposes, either directly or indirectly."

When Wheeler requested that the league be permitted to produce certified copies of the records instead of bringing the original books to Washington, the committee agreed to send an expert accountant to Westerville, Ohio, where the league's headquarters are located.

Treat All Alike.

Besides the Anti-Saloon League, Reed announced that funds of all organizations which participated in primary campaigns would be investigated.

Wheeler requested that the names of contributors to the Anti-Saloon League be kept private but the committee immediately overruled him.

Senator LaFollette, (R) of Wisconsin, protested against any secrecy in handling the names of dry "angels."

"I feel that those contributions to a public agency, used for political purposes, should be spread on the public records," LaFollette declared. "I am for making them public."

"So am I," agreed Reed. "Any man who monkeys with politics can expect to have his work bared to the public."

Reed then announced the committee intended to investigate the finances of every organization found spending money in either the Pennsylvania or any other senatorial primary.

"That goes for any church organization, the Ku Klux Klan, the Anti-Volstead organization," said Reed. "They'll all be treated alike."

New York Spent $1,927,060.

Wheeler filed with the committee a list of the receipts and expenditures of the State Anti-Saloon Leagues of New York, New Jersey and Ohio for all the years since 1920. These records show that the New York organization has spent $1,927,060 since 1920, while collecting only $1,956,822. The Ohio organization collected $900,865, while spending $882,197. The New Jersey organization collected $412,390, and spent $407,874.

The New York finances were reported as follows: 1920, income $347,313, expenditures $345,042; 1921, $356,765 and $339,730; 1922, $253,9[illegible] and $255,457; 1923, $2[illegible] 991 and $274,502; fiscal year ending April 30, 1924 $21[illegible] and $255,475; six months ending October 30, 1924, $94,7[illegible] and $[illegible] six months ending April [illegible] 1925 $77,3[illegible] and $9[illegible]; [illegible] ending December [illegible] $[illegible] and $113,331; [illegible] ending May 31, 1926 $7[illegible] and $71,321.

ARCTIC MYSTERY NOT YET SOLVED

London.—A tin of beef has revived interest in a subject that thrilled the world 75 years ago. It was at about that time that the British admiralty and the world at large became convinced that Sir John Franklin's expedition was hopelessly lost in the Arctic seas. Searching parties that braved the hazards of the North first to take assistance to the heroic band of men marooned in the icefloes and last, when all hope had been abandoned to bring back some word of the fate that had befallen them, returned with a few relics found scattered on the fields of ice at Beechey Island. Among the salvaged articles were some cans of beef.

It was thought that when the sealed top of the receptacle containing the bully beef on which Franklin and his companions lived was lifted a possible reason for their death might be disclosed. Could it be that the contents of the can had not come up to the required standard and that the explorers had succumbed to its poison? Professor Beechey of Liverpool was elected to solve the mystery. The tin was cut and the meat removed and examined. It was found in as sound a condition as when it left the packers hands 81 years ago. If the rest of the provisions sent with the expedition to feed the men for a period of three years were as fresh as this beef another theory regarding the "lost expedition" has been exploded.

It was in 1845 that the sturdy ships, the Terror and the Erebus, set forth from England to discover the northwest passage, never to return. They were under the command of Sir John Franklin, a skillful leader.

Clue Fourteen Years Old.

Many theories have been advanced as to what befell his vessels and their crews. Not until 14 years later was a clue found that permitted those in command of the searching parties to establish to a degree the course taken by the expedition. It was an admiralty form placed under a cairn on Point Victory, around the margin the words being written.

"April 25, 1848.—H M ships Terror and Erebus were deserted on April 22, five leagues N ¾ N. W. of this, having been beset since September 12, 1846. The officers and crews, consisting of 105 souls, under the command of Captain F R. M. Crozier, landed in lat. 69° 37' 42" N, long 90° 41' W. This paper was found by Lieutenant Irving where it had been deposited by the late Commander Gore in June, 1847. Sir John Franklin died on June 11, 1847, and the total loss by death in the expedition has been to this date nine officers and fifteen men."

Silence and the ice sea henceforth wrapped them in eternal mystery. Of the ships not even a broken spar was found by the searchers. A few skeletons indicated where some of the crew had fallen. Eskimos told of having seen straggling figures making their way across the frozen fields and of abandoned provisions.

His First Arctic Trip.

Sir John Franklin in 1845, at the age of fifty nine, had made a reputation as a navigator and an explorer. At the age of ten he first had sight of the sea from the shore of Saltfleet, England. He determined to be a sailor. Hoping to cure him of his desire, his parents permitted him to embark on a merchantman bound for Lisbon. Far from being the end, it was the beginning of his seafaring career.

Adventure followed adventure. On board the Polyphemus he took part in the battle of Copenhagen; in the Investigator he learned the science of navigation and became expert in making maps; while exploring the coast of Australia he was shipwrecked. He was in the battle of Trafalgar, in the blockade of Flushing and the attack on New Orleans.

Meanwhile, the British admiralty's interest in the Arctic regions, which had been dormant for half a century, began to revive under the leadership of Sir John Barrow, secretary of the navy. An expedition was organized under the command of Captain Buchan of the Dorothea, in which Lieutenant Franklin was invited to join, taking charge of the Trent. It ended unfortunately for the Dorothea, and Franklin returned, convoying a damaged ship.

Tried a Third Time.

All England was afire with the desire to know what lay to the north and west of Hudson bay. Maps indicated two rivers, the Mackenzie and the Copermine, but of the indentures of the coast between their estuaries nothing had been learned. The following year Franklin was ordered to traverse the land lying between Hudson bay and the Arctic sea. Three years of hardship followed, but the party returned triumphant, having descended the Copermine to its mouth.

When next he sailed, he was Commander Franklin. That time he penetrated still further, reaching Mackenzie bay. The commander himself sailed along the unfriendly coast, while Doctor Richardson was detailed to journey in an eastwardly direction, exploring the coast to the mouth of the Copermine. This second Arctic voyage was not to be followed by another until 20 years later, when he undertook the one that was to prove fatal.

Early New World City

The first European city in the New world, named Isabella, was founded by Christopher Columbus in December, 1493, on the northern shore of Haiti, about twenty-five miles west of the present town of Puerto Plata.

Franklin returned to England from Tasmania, where he had been lieutenant governor. Since his last effort to establish the northern contours of the American continent, important additions had been made to his own findings by others. Only 800 miles lay between him and the fulfillment of his life's dream—the discovery of the northwest passage. He sought the command of the expedition under consideration by the admiralty. His wish was granted.

His ships, the Terror and the Erebus, were commissioned by his former mates. Captain Crozier, who had commanded the Terror in her Antarctic trip, was second in command. Each ship carried 67 officers and men. They were provisioned for three years. Taking every precaution, Franklin ordered them equipped with steam power and screw propellers.

It was agreed between the admiralty and Franklin, at the latter's suggestion, that he should have his choice of two alternatives. He was either to pass through and beyond Lancaster sound to Cape Walker and thence southward in the direction of the American coast, or, that being impossible to carry out, he was to attempt a northerly course through Wellington channel.

The little company reached the coast of Greenland by July. Franklin's last letter to his wife was written from Disco bay. It was full of good cheer and they expected soon to be on their way aboard the Erebus. Reports reached them of clearing ice and fair weather, and they expected soon to be on their way. Five weeks later they were seen moored to an iceberg delayed by frozen seas and fogs, when they had hoped to be well on their way to Lancaster sound.

Effort to Escape Afoot.

It was at about that time that they were last seen by a whaler, ten days after they had left Disco. "All well and in remarkable spirits," is the report the whaler's log made of them. From then on the expedition was wrapped in the silence of the North.

Evidence found in later years leads to the belief that, leaving winter quarters at Beechey island in 1846, the expedition shaped its course down Peel sound. The voyage was apparently a slow one and came to an end when they were "beset since September 12."

The evidence pieced together shows that the following year they must have traveled further south into the channel named for the explorer, where they came into a wider stretch of ice and water. Again their progress was halted and for 587 days they were locked in an icy prison. Many died and others made a vain desperate dash for freedom. Relics picked up in later years told of the horrors of their march, but apparently bad beef was not one of them.—New York Times.

Railroad in Alaska Boosts Tourist Trade

Anchorage, Alaska.—The Alaskan railroad was constructed to develop the assets of Uncle Sam's northern possession, but it also has brought satisfaction to the road's officials from another source—tourists.

The route of the railway from Seward, on the Pacific ocean, to Fairbanks in the interior, passes through one of the most beautiful sections of the northland. Each year has brought an increasing number of visitors.

The entire trip, with the exception of 40 hours on the Gulf of Alaska, is made through what is known as the Inside passage, a land-locked route, which is described as being as smooth as a mill pond.

The trip from Seattle to Fairbanks and return takes three weeks. From May 15 to September 15 there is no snow, but abundant sunshine.

Now- for America a revolutionary European-type high-speed Light Car

This New Car Offers:

- 30 miles on a gallon of gasoline
- 55 miles an hour—5 to 30 miles in 13 seconds
- 4-wheel brakes—stops in 51 feet from 40 miles an hour
- Turns in 34-foot circle—easiest car in America to park
- 5 feet 8 inches high—lower gravity center—greater safety
- European-type body—more inside room than any other light car

One of the first Whippets being inspected by Miss Lois Wilson at her New York motion picture studio

A three-minute study of these remarkable facts may save you from buying an obsolete automobile

THIS is the announcement of a revolutionary new-type car, different from anything you have ever known before.

A car that combines the advanced engineering practice of Europe with new and improved standards of American performance.

This new car has a low, European-type body. With height and length in true symmetrical proportion.

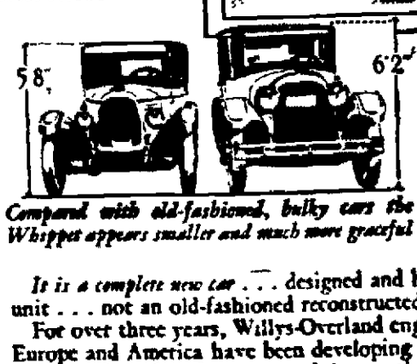
It is 5 feet 8 inches high . . . not as tall as the average man. Yet it provides more room and comfort than you've ever found in any automobile of this class before.

It has a high-torque, 31 horsepower motor of small bore and long stroke—the same engineering principle used in the fastest racing cars of America and Europe.

It turns in a 34-foot circle . . . that's less than the width of an average city street. You can park in 14 feet . . . which is much less than the space required for the ordinary car.

4-wheel brakes are an integral part of this new car's chassis design . . . a necessity which light car owners have not heretofore enjoyed. Measured tests show that it will stop in 51 feet from a speed of 40 miles an hour.

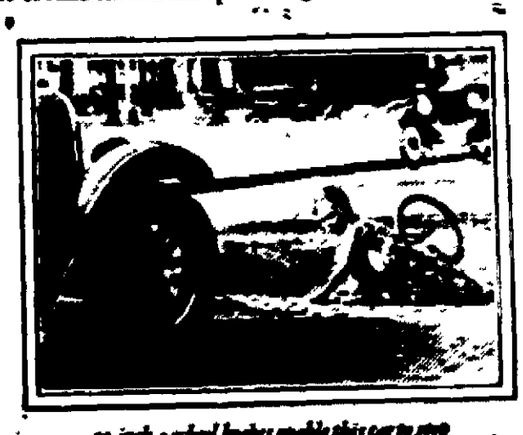
Its center of gravity is extremely low, with ample road clearance . . . thus giving a sense of security you have never found in any light car. Something you actually feel when you drive this car.



Compared with old-fashioned, bulky cars the Whippet appears smaller and much more graceful

It is a complete new car . . . designed and built as a unit . . . not an old-fashioned reconstructed chassis.

For over three years, Willys-Overland engineers in Europe and America have been developing it. Over 360,000 miles of road tests proved the practical advantages of this car before it was released for production.



51-inch 4-wheel brakes enable this car to stop in 51 feet from a speed of 40 miles per hour

The distinctive body lines of the Overland Whippet frankly resemble the smartest automobiles of America and Continental Europe. Stand in front of this car and you can imagine yourself on the boulevards of France.

Low-swung . . . rakish . . . graceful as a whippet . . . that's the only way to describe it.

Complete symmetry of design has been achieved with compact external dimensions.

Compared with contemporary big, bulky cars the Overland Whippet appears smarter and much more graceful. That's because height and length are in true artistic proportion.

In the Overland Whippet you have the feeling of riding closer to the ground . . . with the resultant sense of solidity and absence of that sideway so noticeable in the conventional type of car. That high-up-in-the-air feeling is gone . . . here is a new kind of riding comfort. Step into this car and you will be surprised to find so much spacious room.

You can compare the Overland Whippet with all other American light cars on the basis of price alone. But from the standpoint of engineering, performance, comfort and quality, it has established an entirely new criterion by which all other light cars must be judged.

The Overland Whippet is furnished in three body styles . . . Sedan, Touring and Coupe.

See this new-type car

You have never seen a car like this before.

With the introduction of the Overland Whippet, it is not sound judgment today to consider the purchase of a less modern car.

A new trend of automobile design is dawning in America. Other light cars of this design will follow this one.

But today Overland . . . and Overland alone . . . offers you these unique engineering attainments.

In fairness to yourself, see this wonderful new-type car.

Willys-Overland, Inc., Toledo, Ohio.

Two engineering ideals combined

The Overland Whippet represents a combination of the most advanced European and American engineering thought.

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 26.—Industrial stocks prices were steady in an unusually dull and featureless half-session of the market today. Short covering in the motor stocks accounted for a few fractional gains, while tobacco stocks and a few of the specialties exhibited a stronger tone. The bulk of steel, oil and railroad shares did not fluctuate more than a small fraction from Friday's closing prices.

Most of the investment rails reached fractionally higher price levels in restricted trading. Chesapeake & Ohio continued to occupy the centre of the stage, though New York Central and Atchison were also in demand. Tobacco stocks and baking stocks sold higher. The favorable reception accorded the $30,000,000 of 6½ per cent bonds of the United Steel Works of Germany, the largest foreign industrial bond issue ever floated in America, was taken as an evidence of the abundance of capital available for the right kind of foreign investment.

Moderate advances in the motors and rails, and reactionary movements in the mercantile stocks were the only incidents of a dull and featureless market in the closing period. Mexican Seaboard Oil sold up 2 points and Skelly Oil was in demand at the best prices on the move.

German General Electric Company 6½ per cent bonds sold up 2 points in the listed bond market today following announcement of the over-subscription of $30,000,000 United Steel Works of Germany 6½ per cent 25-year bonds. French Government 7S and 8S and Italian 7S were steady, while Polish 8 per cents moved up a point at 87¾. Liberty bonds were quiet, with first 3½S at 101.15 and second 4¼S at 100.28.

Skelly Oil Company 6½S sold at the record high price of 147. Public Utility and Traction bonds were quiet but steady.

LAST NIGHT on THE RADIO

Crashing electrical discharges, followed by fading, distortion, fat frying and every other thing known to the devils in the air, combined to make radio reception a very uncertain proposition last night.

The fat frying was intermittent and the first troublesome manifestation of this kind since people turned off their oil heating devices for the summer. The fact that there has been no fat frying for the past month seems to acquit the refrigerators of this crime in the air.

Static was very unkind to the Florida land boomers at WJZ but let up considerably for the Bonnie Laddies.

Few cared what happened to WGY after they began one of their interminable radio plays.

Again much static and distortion was absent from the shorter waves. WBNY, WMSG, KDKA and WBZ were almost faultless while longer waves were variously bedevilled.

WJAZ was the prize Chicago station.

Lutherans Give Pastor Surprise

Congregation and Societies of Trinity Lutheran Church Celebrate Birthday Anniversary of the Rev. William H. Pretzsch.

In the assembly rooms of Trinity Lutheran Church on Spring street Friday night the Brotherhood surprised the pastor, the Rev. William H. Pretzsch, on the occasion of his birthday. The pastor had returned half an hour previous from Synod which had met at Meriden, Conn., and naturally knew nothing of the surprise party arrangements, although he was rather surprised at the unusually large number of autos parked around the church and parsonage, which almost prevented him from parking his car. Mrs. Pretzsch, however, was taken into confidence in order to prevent any interruption of the plan. As soon as the pastor had been led into the darkened assembly rooms the entire assembly, consisting of the members of the Brotherhood and their families and the Junior Luther League sang: "Surprise, Pastor Pretzsch, surprise, etc."

The Brotherhood presented the happy pastor with a purse and the Junior Luther League, a steamer chair. The pastor in a very feeling way expressed his gratitude for the most successfully carried out surprise and the precious gifts. The tables were most profusely arranged with the things that satisfy and bedecked most gorgeously with flowers from gardens and woods. The church altar will have a sample of the latter to show Sunday.

A program was rendered most acceptably with the church orchestra participating largely. The arrangements were in the hands of Fred Ewel, president of the Brotherhood, ably assisted by Mrs. Peter Kullman. Olivera Krueger, May Marks and Fred Ewel rendered pleasing numbers.

To the music by the orchestra all present marched in couples to the tables where they enjoyed the bountiful repast. One of the speakers, so impressed with the happiness of the occasion, closed his remarks with the words that he wished that our pastor had a birthday every month. It was late when the enthusiastic assembly had to go home.

Patriotic Action of Foreign-Born Citizens

Through the efforts of a naturalized Swiss, a naturalized German and a naturalized Frenchman, the United States government once was saved from bankruptcy, writes Sydney Greenbie in Asia Magazine. It was during the War of 1812, a war so unpopular in many quarters that the government's attempt to negotiate a loan of $16,000,000 for its conduct brought in subscriptions of less than $6,000,000. New England refused to extend any aid, and some persons thought that the colonies were going back to the Mother Country.

The treasury was almost at the end of its rope, lacking both funds and credit, when John Jacob Astor, a native German, and Stephen Girard, a Frenchman, the two richest men in America, came to the rescue and, through Secretary Albert Gallatin of Madison's cabinet, a Swiss, took the remaining $10,000,000. Astor subscribed for $2,000,000, and Girard, through his bank, became responsible for $8,000,000.

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

WANTING TO SNEEZE

IF YOU want to sneeze and can't sneeze, it is a sure sign that some one loves you and does not dare to tell you so. This universal superstition is a clear case of sympathetic or imitative magic, combined with that idea of the magical sancitity of the sneeze held by primitive man from the days of him who first told the story of Prometheus down. The sneeze is a manifestation of the life, the intellect. A young man's love for a woman is a part of his spiritual being and when the bashful lover represses it within himself instead of letting it manifest itself in words to his adored one, this repression acts by sympathetic magic upon the object of his affections and she can't manifest her vital ego by sneezing—though she feels that she would like to, just as he feels that he would like awfully well to tell his love. The basic idea of the superstition is the false syllogism of primitive magic—things associated in thought are associated in fact.

AN ABBREVIATED STORY

ALICIA POTPOURRI

"WINONA," said Alicia Potpourri, "I've come to get your advice. Jack Linotype, who hasn't a cent or anything except his good looks, but whom I love devotedly, and Cheesboro Midge, who has a quarter of a million dollars in spite of his bald head, have both asked me to marry them. What shall I do, Winona?—I want your candid opinion."

"Follow the dictates of your heart, Alicia—you never make a mistake when you marry for love," responded Winona Tumblers.

"Thanks, Winona—It's so hard to make up one's mind," said Alicia.

And she went to Camisola Stitchem and begged for her candid opinion.

"Marry Jack—marry for love—true happiness lies that way only," said Camisola.

"It's so hard to know just what to do," sighed Alicia. And she appealed to Claudine Siption for her candid opinion.

"Cop the guy with money," counseled Claudine. "Love's all right in its way, but it don't weight like money."

"Claudine, you darling!" cried Alicia—"it's so refreshing to get a real friend's candid opinion."

And she accepted Cheesboro Midge and seldom regretted it.

What's the Use?

The stall-fed philosopher agrees with the fellow who says that it is bad enough to make a blunder, but it really peeves one more to find out he is so unimportant that nobody has noticed the blunder. It is like "busting" a tire, swearing a whole lot about it, and then by looking around find there was not a soul near to hear your choice assortment of emphatics. Gee whiz, heck—jiminy crickets, what's the use?—Logansport Pharos Tribune.

Expense Systematized

A "budget machine" has been invented by Mrs. Annie P. Kenny, head of the home economics division of a large bank in Chicago. Given the income and the size of a family, she can tell instantly from her machine just what the family may spend for food, clothes, rent, welfare and for luxuries.

Gaffney-Abrams.

A very pretty wedding took place in St. Joseph's Church, New Paltz Saturday, June 19, at 3 p. m when Miss Anna Gaffney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence P. Gaffney of Eltings Corners, and Laurin Abrams of Ohioville, two popular members of New Paltz society, were married by the Rev. William C. Humphrey. The church was handsomely decorated. The altar was banked with palms, ferns and cut flowers. Ferns and daisies formed a gate at the opening of the chancel rail through which the bridal party passed. The bride entered the church to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin, which was beautifully rendered by Miss Lura Alsdorf. The bride was attractively attired in a gown of white georgette with real lace trimmings and wore a veil of white tulle caught up with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of white Killarney roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Catherine Gaffney, a coussin of the bride, was becomingly dressed in orchid georgette, wore a picture hat and carried pink Killarney roses. The best man was Lawrence Gaffney, a brother of the bride. The ushers were Daniel and James Gaffney, Harry Sutton and Clayton Jenkins. There was a reception at the home of the bride's parents for the relatives of the bride and groom and the members of the bridal party. A sumptuous wedding dinner was served at five p m. The bridal couple left immediately after the wedding dinner in an automobile amid showers of rice and confetti. They will spend their honeymoon at Niagara Falls. There were a number of beautiful and costly presents, including silver, cut glass, china, a beautiful electric table lamp, clocks, linen and money in the form of gold pieces and checks. Relatives were present from New York, Brooklyn, Newburgh, Marlborough, Highland, Esopus, Lloyd, Ohioville, New Paltz Walden and Clintondale. On their return Mr and Mrs. Abrams will start keeping house in their newly furnished home near Eltings Corners.

UNITED STATES MAY FALL BACK ON MOLLA MALLORY.

Wimbledon, Eng., June 26.—An ill star seems to hover over the tennis fates of the United States at Wimbledon today.

First there was the illness of Miss Helen Wills, then the early elimination of Miss Mary K. Browne and Vincent Richards, and now Miss Elizabeth Ryan is ill and unable to play today. The extent of Miss Ryan's illness has not been determined as yet, but it is hoped that she will be able to play Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree on Monday.

The United States may have to fall back on its forgotten favorite, Molla Mallory, whose defeat of the young Joan Fry yesterday was a surprise and an upset. Mrs. Mallory apparently is in better form than anyone realized. There is a chance that she will meet Mlle. Lenglen.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 26, 1926.

Senator Cummins is said to enjoy his distinction of never having voted for a tariff law during his eighteen years in the Senate, he having found the duties in all cases either too high or too low. Neither Republican nor Democratic tariff revisionists have been able to achieve the approval of Mr. Cummins.

We are now producing nearly fifty million dollars worth of chewing gum a year, but Americans are not now the only consumers or chewers. In recent years there has been a growing foreign demand for this article of commerce, which many of our doughboys involuntarily advertised while in Europe.

More lawbreaking by youth in search of a "thrill." After being arrested for burglary, six students in a Western college explained that they did not care a rap for the things they stole and only wanted the thrill they experienced in the act of breaking in and stealing them. Probably the thrill afforded by the punishment will be somewhat less enjoyable.

Paved roads used to be our chief concern in a good roads program. It is estimated that this year we will have in excess of 500,000 miles of hard-surfaced roads in the United States. These improved roads have brought an increase in traffic which no one even dreamed of 10 years ago. The problem we now face is not only "paved" roads but "wider" roads. Wider roads are necessary for two reasons: to enable traffic to speed up, and to prevent accidents. On many of our crowded narrow roads a slow moving truck or other vehicle will block traffic, due to the fact that there is little opportunity to pass such obstructions from the rear.

QUALIFICATIONS COUNT.

As a nation we distrust the motives of a great financier who seeks to enter public life. We sling mud at a lawyer who has made plenty of money and prefers the honors of a judgeship to big fees. We fear that such men would rob and betray us, forgetting that if such was their intention they would not have to get into public office to do it.

When Andrew W. Mellon became Secretary of the Treasury many good people shivered in their boots for fear that some morning we would wake up and find the United States gone, vanished in the capacious pockets of Mr. Mellon. Instead of this, we find taxes reduced, economy in government such as we have not seen for many a long year, and the public finances on a sound basis.

Perhaps a few examples of this sort will convince America, not that wealth should be made a qualification for public office, but that it should not be made a disqualification. In those branches of government where expert service is needed it is not unreasonable to inquire into the experience and capabilities of candidates at least as carefully as we would look into the references of a window washer. And we would not turn down a window washer merely because he was so good at it that somebody else was willing to pay him more money.

WOES OF THE PIANO TRADE.

Time was when a piano in a home was regarded not merely as a handsome bit of furniture but "a token of social prestige"—or such is the reported view of the National Association of Music Merchants which recently met in convention and confessed the perplexities of its members. But the automobile-for-everybody hit the piano-for-everybody a hard blow, the victrola hit it harder still, and the radio—providing a superior order of canned music—pretty nearly knocked the piano out. In consequence there are now "ten million pianos" in existence that are a drug on the market. And what is to be done about it? Are they to be scrapped as mere junk, and are the factories—that best since have slowed down—to stop work altogether?

Piano factories and piano merchants will have to look the facts in the face and decrease their output and trim their stock. But they need not shut up shop. The real musicians, the actual music producers, all those who want to make music for themselves and put something of their own taste and individuality into it, will still want their pianos. To sit with folded hands and listen to canned products of even the highest quality is not for them, or will fail to content them. Reduced business for the piano factories and music merchants is inevitable, but they are still sure of a steady, though lessened, demand.

MIGRAINE WITHOUT HEADACHE.

Some time ago I spoke about two Chicago physicians who had found twenty cases suffering with severe attacks of nausea and vomiting, occurring at regular intervals.

These physicians felt that the attacks were exactly like what is called migraine, except that there was no headache.

Now migraine, as you remember, is a kind of sick headache occurring at intervals of a few days or a few weeks, and affecting one side only, near the eye or temple, often accompanied by nausea and vomiting.

These physicians now report ten more of these cases.

Some of them give a history of having had the regular type of migraine, that is with the headache for several years, but now found that while the headache was absent, all the other abdominal symptoms were present, and the attacks came on at regular intervals as usual.

In some of the cases the attacks so greatly resembled gall stone colic that an exploratory opening had been made in the abdomen, only to find the gall bladder free of trouble. In others an ulcer of the stomach was suspected, and although test meals and X-ray examination showed nothing, it was thought advisable to make an exploratory opening anyway, and the stomach was found to be in a normal condition.

There was a family history of migraine in nearly every case.

The attacks usually began abruptly, lasted one to four days, and ended just as abruptly.

And the cause?

No one has been able to locate the cause as yet. Some investigators claim that it is simply a gradual poisoning from the intestine, a sort of a slow acting constipation that reaches a climax, and gives these "severe bilious" attacks. Others that it is nervous exhaustion.

Our two Chicago physicians however, believe that it is a nervous condition, their statement being "It would seem that under certain conditions parts of the brain have a tendency (inherited), to become a storm center, which involves the large nerve supplying the organs of the abdomen and thus nausea and vomiting ensue."

Rest, intestinal cleansing, and abstinence from food, seems to be the best form of treatment.

ROBIE AT ROSENDALE.

Final Services of Evangelistic Campaign To Be Held Sunday.

(Contributed.)

On Sunday morning and evening will be held the final services of the very successful evangelistic campaign conducted by Evangelist Robie in the village of Rosendale. A record attendance is looked for at these meetings, especially Sunday evening. Mr. Robie has preached a complete, old-fashioned gospel, nothing radical or undignified, in his presentation of the truth; he has made many lasting friends during his stay and his return is looked forward to with happy anticipation at a not far distant date. Mr. Robie's subject for Sunday morning will be, "What it is to be a Christian", and in the evening, "The Unpardonable Sin." The Sunday morning service is at 10:45 and in the evening at 8 o'clock. Saturday night at 8 o'clock Mr. Robie will direct another sacred concert similar to the one so much enjoyed last week. The pastors of the cooperating churches wish through the press to thank all those who by their presence and faithfulness and the free use of their talents contributed to making this three weeks' campaign an unqualified success and uplift to many individuals and the community at large. Special appreciation is felt for the orchestra and choir who made the music so inspiring. The influence of these services will have a lasting effect for good.

Today's Story in New York History

By Frederic A. Godcharles.

(Copyright, 1926, by the Author)

First Bloodshed in the Anti-Rent Controversy Occurred on Livingston Manor, June 26, 1766.

Livingston Manor was patented July 22, 1686, and first settled by tenants at the beginning of the following century. This patent conferred upon Robert Livingston feudal privileges; the tract contained 160,240 acres, and included nearly all the present towns of Clermont, Germantown, Livingston, Gallatin, Taghkanic, Ancram and Copake.

The most important settlement was made by German Palatinates, in 1710, upon a tract of 6,000 acres, now constituting the principal part of Germantown, which had been sold back to the government by Robert Livingston.

The territory of Massachusetts, under its charter, extended westward to the Pacific Ocean, and grants were made by that colony, the conflicting claims of which gave rise to bitter contentions and riotous outbreaks. Arrests made under Massachusetts warrants led to riots and bloodshed. Combinations were formed to dispossess the proprietor of Livingston Manor, which resulted in tumults and murder. These difficulties continued until after the Revolutionary War.

About the middle of the eighteenth century, tenants who had neglected to pay their rents until they had reached a considerable amount, became defiant, deciding in future to hold their lands as owners and no longer as tenants, under authority to be secured from the Government of Massachusetts Bay.

This was the actual beginning of hostilities, and during the controversy houses were burned, wheat was cut down and carried away in wagons, and acres of corn destroyed. Acts of retaliation were committed by both parties.

For some months a mob had frequently assembled and ranged in the eastern part of the Van Rensselaer Manor, but on June 25, 1766, they appeared on the Livingston Manor to make some proposals to Mr. Robert Livingston, but he was absent from home. The mob then returned to Van Rensselaer's son, about two miles from Calverick, where, not finding him home, they used some insulting words and left a message, that if he did not meet them at their rendezvous the next day, they would come to him.

The mob had made threats to take the lords of both the Livingston and Van Rensselaer Manors dead or alive.

On June 26, the sheriff of Albany, with 150 men under his command, went to disperse the rioters, who to the number of sixty, were assembled in a house on the manor. On the advance of the sheriff's posse the anti-rent party fired upon them from the house. The sheriff's hat and wig were shot from his head, but he escaped unhurt.

Of the rioters, three ringleaders were killed, and many wounded, among the latter being Captain Robert Noble, a tenant of Rensselaerwyck, who held his commission under Massachusetts authority.

The rioters returned to Captain Noble's house, where they formed a breastwork, and did not quit the place until the sheriff's party left the scene. Some of Noble's neighbors were taken prisoners unlawfully by the posse, and upon the return of the sheriff Noble was made a prisoner and confined in the Sheffield jail.

A party led by John and Henry Van Rensselaer found the Noble house vacant, and before their return a tenant named Riis, an Anti-rent sympathizer was killed upon the Livingston Manor.

The following week Major Brown led a party of regular militia from Dutchess County, toward Livingston Manor and as they were crossing a bridge they were met by an Anti-rent mob, when in the skirmish which ensued two of the regulars were wounded and many of the rioters. The latter were rounded up and fifty of them placed in jail.

There were many more violent scenes during this Anti-rent movement which continued until December, 1844, when Governor Wright sent seven companies of militia to assist the sheriff of Columbia County in the discharge of his duties. The final triumph of the Anti-renter came in 1852, when a test case was decided in their favor, and the controversy after a century of repeated bloodshed and riot was closed. Since then the soil has been held in fee simply by its occupants.

The Silk Dress for Town Is Often Tailored and May Have Braid or Ribbon by Way of Trimming Some Approved Color Schemes.

"When as in silks my Julia goes," she is apt to present a trim, tailored mien. Taffeta suggests itself as an almost dustproof material and therefore one with an appeal to both the traveller and the toiler. Again we have navy blue on which to fall back, and again we have black, both the better for a touch of contrast, provided most frequently by red. Green obligingly offers variety for the utilitarian frock, few seasons finding green as well beloved as this.

A few seasons ago the chiffon coat made its appearance and met some ridicule before it justified itself. The tailored chiffon and the tailored georgette frock have followed in its wake. Each has a well-deserved position, especially in the wardrobe of the

The application of cire and other braids on georgette or chiffon is one of the most desirable trimming details, ribbon, of course, providing a change and producing somewhat the same effect, although capable of many others more elaborate. One cannot fail to be impressed by the importance of belting ribbon. It appears on hats and on frocks to a hardly less degree.

A Sparkling Dress Is of Pink Satin With a Black Satin Skirt Which Has Braces, Belt and a Center Motif, Also the Sides of the Skirt Designed in Diamante Embroidery About an Inch and a Half Wide. The Corsage Is Long Waisted and the Skirt Molded.

The beaded gown is a die hard. It has, in fact, as many lives as the proverbial cat and can withstand all sorts of hard usage such as is the fate of a gown on over-crowded dance floors.

The loveliest beaded gowns just now are on nothing more substantial than net, for the most coveted gowns of the moment have an ethereal quality which, of course, calls only for tissues and textile of the most fairylike weave. To the misty quality of chiffon is added the wavering grace of fringe, for Paris, realizing that it is a world of all but perpetual motion, has seen to it that this year's models have "speeded up," so that they keep pace with the movement of the Charleston and the mad whirl generally. A gown must suggest motion, not be a passive thing. It must billow or flutter if it is for evening, and lend itself to the flexibility of the body. Fringe, of course, does all of those things, which is largely accountable for its great vogue at this time. One may have a preference for silk fringe, but crystal and metal fringes have their place when more formality is desired.

There may be more interest in straight lines than for the past month or more, but this interest will be found to be centered about clothes for sports or street rather than for evening wear, although the many really unusual uses of pleats contrive to preserve a straight silhouette and at the same time allow for sufficient material for any sort of activity. Net, beaded or unadorned, rivals chiffon these nights. Both have a formidable rival in the many new and daintily tinted laces, a feature of every evening party.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

by Mary Graham Bonner

COPYRIGHT BY WESTERN NEWSPAPER UNION

HEART IN RIGHT PLACE

Now you may think that the Fairy of the Hearts only appears around St. Valentine's day, but that is not the case at all.

Having a Nap.

And, if you think about it a little more, you will understand this quite easily.

The Fairy of the Hearts must be around a great, great deal more than that.

In fact the Fairy of the Hearts would feel sad if she thought that she was only wanted once a year.

One day the Fairy of the Hearts was having a nap. She had a most beautiful place in Fairyland for her sleeping and napping quarters.

All about her was a bower of green vines hanging over a green and white latticed summer garden. Down the sides of the summer garden were red rambler roses and on the other side pink rambler roses.

The reason for this was because the Fairy of the Hearts had once tried to make up her mind whether she liked red rambler roses better than pink rambler roses, or whether she liked pink rambler roses better than red rambler roses.

She had thought and thought and thought about it but had not been able to decide.

So finally she had said:

"There is no reason why I shouldn't have both kinds of roses when I like both kinds so much."

That was why the red rambler roses were on one side and the pink rambler roses on the other side.

Within her summer garden sleeping quarters was a big, wide bed made of soft, soft green moss.

Her pillow was freshly made every day by the little Rose Fairies and was of the petals of roses.

There were tiny places between the vines and the roses where the soft breezes stole in when she was napping and asleep and they always sung to her, soft, sweet songs of the love that was in the world, and of the happiness that was in the world, and of the joy that was in the world.

And, as she slept, she smiled and it seemed to her that more and more hearts appeared before her in her dream, for she loved hearts so much.

She was always ready to give hearts to those who wanted them.

She had her magic wand with which she touched the hearts of people, too.

Well, when she awoke that day, who should come running to her but little Puzzler.

Little Puzzler is always hearing of those things that puzzle people, questions they cannot answer, wonders they can't finish wondering about.

Sometimes he comes to Fairyland with these questions and then he flies back to the world where people are and whispers the answers to the questions.

"Fairy of the Hearts," he began, "I heard someone saying that even though they could not do everything for someone else that their heart was in the right place.

"Now isn't a heart always in the right place? Isn't a heart just where a heart should be? A heart doesn't go wandering to a person's feet or a person's arm or a person's head or a person's largest toe, does it?"

"Oh, no, little Puzzler," said the Fairy of the Hearts, "but that expression means that a person whose heart is in the right place is a person who has sympathy and understanding and unselfishness.

Little Puzzler.

"When we say that a person has no heart, or that a person is heartless it doesn't mean that person is without a heart in their body, but it means that the heart is simply a heart without feeling.

"When we say that a person's heart has been touched, and when I touch a person's heart with my magic wand it means that I have reached beyond all the hardness that may be on the outside and have reached the love that is somewhere in every heart. In some it has been covered up so long it is so hard, almost impossible, to find.

"But let me go with you, little Puzzler, for I like to see people whose hearts are in the right place—in more than one way."

Talking Too Much

The average man talks too much. It is well to let the other man talk half the time. Each one is trying to "size up" the other before coming to terms or arriving final conclusions. In an extended discussion the experienced and wise man, if he is a good listener, is able to determine with considerable accuracy something of what is in the mind of the other man.—Elbert H. First Horses in America

Horses were not known to the Indians prior to the advent of the white man in America. The first horses seen by the mounted Indians were those of the Spanish invaders of Mexico. A few years later De Soto brought the horse into Florida and westward to the Mississippi, while Coronado, in 1541, introduced it to the Indians of the Great plains.

SCHOOL DAYS

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

At Twenty-One:—Marietta Holley, Author of the Famous "Samantha" Books, Didn't Help Her Mother as Much as She Should.

"AT THE age of twenty-one my position in life was like that of any other young girl in the pleasant north country. I helped my mother in the ordinary work of the household, though not so much as I should have done, for until one has the responsibility of a home, one does not understand the care and labor it means.

"I scribbled a good deal even then; poetry—so-called—and essays on almost any subject, some, I believe, that even Shakespeare and Milton would have thought beyond a poet's range. I did a great deal, indeed everything available that came my way. I roamed over the literary hills and vales with the freedom and delight of the country born.

"So much for my outward life. As for my inner life, I dreamed the gleaming, fanciful castles that young girls exhibit both in city and country—glittering castles that, it is needless to say, were never built.

"My ambitions at that time were boundless; and so was my faith. I was going to do some great work that would revolutionize the world and would set all the wrongs to right. Nothing is easier than for youth to make over the world; nothing is easier than for youth to look through the golden haze that hangs about their future and see a world transformed; nothing is easier than for youth to view the world's weaknesses and ailings and stand serenely on a height—a conqueror.

"Alas for the dream and ambitions of youth! The long years pass and things move on about the same. And as the shadows lengthen in the west, instead of the high place and the conqueror's dream, one must sit by the common wayside and see the old world go by in the same old way.—Marietta Holley ("Josiah Allen's Wife").

Marietta Holley is one of the last surviving members of the old school of writers who used to delight our parents and grandparents. She is the author of the celebrated "Samantha" books—"Samantha Amongst the Brethren," "Samantha at Saratoga," "Samantha Among the Colored Folks," etc., and for an equally popular work of that period, "Around the World With Josiah Allen's Wife." The last "Samantha book was published in 1913. "Samantha on Women's Rights."

Miss Holley is a veteran in the cause of women's suffrage.

"The feminists are claiming the credit for the modern woman's freedom," says enfranchised Frankie, "but it probably was a man who invented the can-opener."

Explicit

A man who went to register just before election was asked his trade. "Mason and builder," he replied. The next man in line was an old Irishman. When the question was put to him he said: "Knight o' Columbus an' bricklayer."—The Christian Register.

Mother's Cook Book

"The woman who has not loved, played with and spanked a child, has missed one of the cardinal joys."

MEAT EXTENDERS

A SMALL slice of mutton cut up into serving-sized pieces, browned in butter, or sweet fat, covered with boiling water and a sliced onion with two or three sliced or latticed carrots, cooked slowly for two hours on the back of the stove, will serve more persons than just one slice of mutton.

Ragout of Lamb.

Take one pound of lamb from the flank, one-half cupful of dried peas, one quart of cold water, two sliced onions, one teaspoonful of salt, three cupfuls of cubed potatoes, one cupful of diced carrots, three tablespoonfuls of flour, two teaspoonfuls of worcestershire sauce, two teaspoonfuls of catsup, two teaspoonfuls of chopped parsely, with pepper and paprika to taste. Pick over the peas, soak over night in cold water to cover. Wipe the meat, remove the bones and cover them with the quart of water, add the soaked peas, bring to the boiling point and simmer until the peas are tender; add salt, potato and carrot, cook until the vegetables are soft. Mix the flour with a third of a cupful of cold water, add to the stew and cook for ten minutes. Add two teaspoonfuls of lemon juice and the other seasonings and serve at once.

Roast Beef With Mexican Sauce.

Reheat rare roast beef cut into thin slices in the following sauce: Cook one onion finely chopped in two tablespoonfuls of butter five minutes. Add one red and one green pepper, one clove of garlic, all finely chopped, two tomatoes peeled and cut into pieces. Cook 15 minutes, add one teaspoonful of worcestershire sauce, one-fourth teaspoonful of celery salt and salt to taste.

Nut Tidbits.

Beat the whites of two eggs stiff, add a cupful of sugar and fold in one cupful of chopped nuts and one cupful of cornflakes. Drop cakes on baking sheet and bake in a moderate oven.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

DOG DAYS

"MUZZLE that dog! The idea of letting a dog go about that way in these dog days!" And it was a "dog day."

Why do we call very hot days dog days? To be sure, in the summer, dogs are dangerous, and when people were not compelled to be as careful as they must be now to incapacitate them for doing harm, the hot days witnessed enough horrible accidents to earn the appellation. But that isn't how it started.

The ancients, with their myths and goddesses, were ardent devotees of astronomy. The planets were popularized, so that school children were familiar not only with this symbol, too, but their physical changes. "Dog days" was the name given by the ancients to a period of about forty days at the time of the rise of Sirius, the planet called the Dog Star. This happened to be at the hottest time of the year, the star rising at July 1. On account of the changes of precession of the Equinoxes, the date has been brought down to about July 23.

Regardless of Sirius, we call them "dog days," if it is hot, and in cool weather we do not divert our attention from the strenuous life to astronomical problems. Yet the planet rises just the same.

The Hallelujah Victory

The Hallelujah victory was that gained by the Britons over the combined Picts and Scots at Heid, in Flintshire, England, March 30, 430. It is so named from the war cry adopted by the Britons.

Before You Decide—

Find Out What It Would Cost To Heat Your Home With Gas

WINTER seems a long way off, and the matter of one's fuel supply is apt to be neglected. BUT NOW IS THE TIME TO GIVE THE SUBJECT OF HEATING YOUR HOME SERIOUS THOUGHT.

Before you decide about what fuel to use, look into the cost of using gas under the new house heating rate now in effect.

Gas for House heating is the "ultimate" fuel because it requires the minimum of attention. Think of lighting the fire in the fall and then being relieved of ALL CARE AND WORRY for the whole heating season!

Gas heating is automatic. You decide what temperature you prefer in the day time and similarly what temperature you wish for the night, set the regulating mechanism at the beginning of the season and that is all.

Such superlative comfort and convenience immediately suggest a prohibitive price. ON THE CONTRARY it is easily within the reach of the many of moderate income.

At all events ask us for figures for heating your house next winter. There is no obligation, of course, and you may say, "Why didn't I know of this before?"

Dual Bill With Chappies Sunday

First Game of Double-header Between Colonials and Chappie Johnson All-Stars Sunday Will Begin at 2 o'clock.

Chappie Johnson's All-Stars will be at the Fair Grounds Sunday for two matches with the Colonials for the first time this season. Chappie and his crowd usually journey to Kingston five or six times during a season and Sunday will make the first of their visits.

The All-Stars always put up a good fight against the Colonials and the fans are always glad to meet the colored aggregation. Chappie has practically the same line-up this year as of other seasons.

Art Smith or Clyde Russell will be the choice for one of the games while a newcomer to the Colonials' staff will probably be given a trial in the remaining contest. The first game will begin at 2 o'clock and the second match will follow a few minutes after the opening contest has been completed.

Next Wednesday the Middletown Grays will meet the Colonials at the Fair Grounds for the first time this season. The All-Schenectady club, who played here last week, will be booked at the Fair Grounds next Saturday afternoon if the arrangements for a match with the Hudson A. C. of New Haven should fall through for that date. If the Hudson club should come for Saturday afternoon the All-Schenectady will be played on Tuesday evening, June 29.

All-Stars Play Amenia Sunday

The Kingston All-Stars will travel to Amenia Sunday to battle with the club from that town. Little is known of the team this season, but if it is as good as last year's the locals will have to step in order to take a win.

Cragan will no doubt work tomorrow's game for the All-Stars.

Next week the locals have three very hard games. Saturday will see them against the Hudson River State Hospital Club, who defeated the All-Stars 4-3 about a month ago. Sunday the home boys will play another asylum club, the Harlem Valley State Hospital. Monday they will go to Millbrook.

EIGHTH STRAIGHT WIN FOR VICTORY EAGLES.

Friday night of last week at McVey's Field the Victory Eagles took the Triangles into camp by the score of 8-0. Fischer, hurling for the Eagles, was in rare form, allowing but three hits and striking out 10. The battery for the Eagles was: J. Houghtaling, c; Fischer, p. The battery for the losers was: Hudler, p., Edinger, c.

Last Sunday the Eagles traveled to Rosendale and defeated the team representing that place in a close and exciting game by the score of 6-4. Both Delaney, pitching for Rosendale, and Matheia, of the Eagles, hurled a wonderful brand of ball. The battery for Rosendale was: Delaney, p.; DeWitt, c.; The battery for the Eagles was; Matheia, p.; J. Houghtaling, c.

Monday night at McVey's field the Eagles had an easy time defeating the Senators by a 24-3 score. The features of the game was the hitting of the whole Eagle team. Each man got at least two hits off the deliveries of Clark and McTague. The hitting of Gorman, Murphy and Frieze, each contributing a triple and one or more singles, also featured. The battery for the losers was: Clark and McTague, p.; Clark, c. The battery for the Eagles was: H. Houghtaling, p.; J. Houghtaling, c.

Sunday afternoon at McVey's Field the Eagles will again cross bats with Rosendale.

ACE HUDKINS KAYOS GOLDSTEIN IN FOURTH

New York, June 26.—Ruby Goldstein, fistic idol of the east side, was "just another fighter" today. The nineteen year old New York lightweight, hailed as Benny Leonard's successor, was knocked out in the fourth round of a desperate battle last night by Ace Hudkins, the "Nebraska Wildcat."

It was the first time Ruby had been knocked out, and his first defeat after twenty-three consecutive victories.

The knockout came like a bolt from the blue. Goldstein's cleverness, speed and lightning blows had kept him for in front during the first three rounds, and he had knocked Hudkins down in the first round with a right cross.

After taking two hard blows in the fourth, the Nebraska boy forced Goldstein to the floor. Ruby got up and was again pushed to the canvas. Then a third haymaking right knocked Goldstein across the lower rope. He slipped to the floor and was counted out. After the fight was over Goldstein cried like a baby.

The bout, though short, was fast and furious throughout. Hudkins was groggy when knocked down in the first round but Goldstein failed to press his advantage.

Callow Going To Pennsylvania

"Rusty" Callow Will Leave Washington to Take Charge of Rowing at Pennsylvania—Highest Paid Rowing Coach.

By Davis J. Walsh.

New York, June 26.—Washington University, the hub of modern oarsmanship, may be about to make the supreme sacrifice once more that the field of eastern rowing may prosper. Four years ago, it gave up its first coaching genius when Ed Leader came on to Yale to develop an unbeaten system, which reached its climax yesterday with Yale's record-breaking victory over Harvard in 20:14 2/5.

Now, they say, the Huskies will be forced to grant a quit-claim on another super-coach. The writer had it pretty straight today that "Rusty" Callow will be in charge of rowing at the University of Pennsylvania when the season of 1927 rolls around.

Pennsylvania, it was declared, has as good as signed the man who has resisted all eastern blandishments for several years and who, not more than a few weeks ago, sniffed a disdainful sniff at an offer from Harvard. At that time, it looked as though Callow would remain with Washington until death did them part.

But the latest angle on the situation is that "Rusty" has listened to a lot of slick city talk from Philadelphia, supplemented by the insinuating rustle peculiar to the restless bank note. They say he virtually has capitulated and that announcement to this effect may be made no later than shortly after the Poughkeepsie race on Monday.

According to additional data on the matter, the announcement will not mean that Fred Spuhn and Max Luft, former Washington oarsmen, are through at Pennsylvania. On the contrary, it was declared, they will carry on as Callow's assistants and at an increase in salary, at that.

The good word is that the sum of $25,000 has been appropriated for the three coaches and just how it will be apportioned is nobody's business, outside of Pennsylvania and the trio in question.

Callow, of course, was to outdraw the others by at least 2 to 1, according to the report, which means that he would be the highest salaried rowing coach in the country.

If he falls, and smart rowing men say they don't see how he can miss, the propagation of the Washington system in the east will have gained its most noted apostle with the possible exception of Leader. It might be even necessary to except Bob Butler of the Navy, after Monday's race, for Butler has made a new garment fit an old system at Annapolis like the fingers of a kid glove.

Anyhow, with Callow or Spuhn or both at Pennsylvania, "Chuck" Logg at Princeton, Ed Leader at Yale, Bob Butler at the Navy and probably some other Washington man at Harvard, there will be honor enough for Washington men in eastern rowing next year, even if they never win a race.

Such popularity must be deserved, as the code of the billboards would put it.

Oarsmen Take Short Workouts

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 26.—The oarsmen in training here for the Intercollegiate Regatta on Monday were scheduled to take only short workouts today, as the entire rowing fraternity is expected to turn out to witness the one mile race between the fours of the Navy and Pennsylvania substitutes at four o'clock this afternoon.

The coaches of the varsity crews will not press the men with hard drives from now on. Last evening rough water limited the crews to short rows.

"Sparkley" Felder, coxswain of the Penn varsity, was expected to arrive here late today.

Picturesque old Poughkeepsie took on a collegiate appearance today as automobiles from nearly every state in the union poured into the city. The hotels are filling fast.

Last Night's Fights.

At Boston—Jack Sharkey, New England heavyweight champion, won on a foul in the first round from Bud Gorman, Kenosha, Wis.

Harry Senk, Springfield, Mass., beat Babe McCogary, Calgary, Alberta, 10 rounds.

At New York—Ace Hudkins, Nebraska lightweight, knocked out Ruby Goldstein, New York, in the fourth round.

Any Dirodi, New York welter, knocked out Joe Reno, Trenton, N. J., in the fifth round.

Harry Felix, lightweight, beat Dick Conlon, 6 rounds.

Joe McKean, Scotch bantam, defeated Sam Sanchez, Mexico, 10 rounds.

At Hollywood, Cal.—Newsboy Brown, flyweight, outpointed Teddy Silva, Hollywood boxer, 10 rounds.

At Atlantic City—Lew Tendler, Philadelphia welter, scored a technical knockout over George Russell, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., in the sixth round.

Billy Pimpus, Atlantic City, drew with Tony Russo, Pleasantville, N. J., 8 rounds.

At Long Branch, N. J.—Ray Mitchell, Philadelphia, knocked out Bobby Amster, Newark, in the sixth round.

At Philadelphia—Lew Brenner, Lancaster, Pa., was given the judge's decision over Scotty McDonald, Scotland, ten rounds; Carmen Sparmello, Philadelphia, and Charley (Boots) Doyle, Port Richmond, Pa., fought eight rounds to a draw.

At Camden, N. J.—Jack Palmer, Philadelphia, outpointed Johnny Oxley, Trenton, N. J., in 10 rounds.

Tagging Major League Bases

The Reds gamely overcame a six-run lead and nosed out the Pirates in the ninth, 9 to 8, Red Lucas winning his own game with a single. Waner, Pittsburgh outfielder, got five hits.

Jess, of the Robins, scored a 7 to 4 triumph over Virgil of the Giants in the battle of the Barnes Brothers. It was Brooklyn's fifth straight victory.

The Phillies exerted their Indian sign on the Braves and won in the ninth, 8 to 7, after Mokan's homer with two on had tied the score. The Braves dropped to within one game of last place.

The Yankees took two games from the Red Sox, 12 to 2 and 11 to 4, but lost the services of Meusel, who sprained an ankle and will be out for at least a month. Jones and Shocker pitched well. Babe Ruth poled out Homer No. 24 and Lazzeri got his tenth homer of the season.

Red Faber ran out of saliva and was knocked out of the box by the Browns, who beat the White Sox 11 to 4 and got back into the .400 class. The batting of Bing Miller and Sisler featured.

Homer No. 26 for Ruth.

Boston, June 26.—Although in poor physical condition, Babe Ruth is keeping within striking distance of his 1921 home run record. His twenty-fourth homer, made against the Red Sox in a double-header yesterday, puts him seven games behind the record, as his twenty-fourth in 1921 was hit in his fifty-sixth.

Many Prepare for Channel Swim

Conquest of the treacherous English channel, a 20-mile struggle against tremendous odds accomplished only by five men in more than half a century, will be attempted this year by a record-breaking entry from Europe and the Americas.

Eighteen swimmers, eleven of whom are women, are in training for the test, several having already established headquarters at Cape Gris-Nez, France.

Fair Athletes to Attempt.

International rivalry, developing from representation in the competitive field by six countries, will be exceeded only by interest in the attempts of the fair athletes, an outgrowth of the world-wide attention attracted to the futile effort of Gertrude Ederle last year. Miss Ederle has signified her intention of making a second attempt this season.

Two other American girls will join Miss Ederle in the test. Helen Wainwright, holder of many amateur swimming championships before she entered the professional ranks last year, has been training in Florida for several months. Helen Canon of Baltimore, who attracted attention this winter in the South by her remarkable endurance in the water, also has made plans to try the rough journey.

Against this trio will be pitted the foremost woman swimmers of England, France, Canada, South America and Egypt. Outstanding among the latter starters are Mme. Jane Sion of France, who reached within about two miles of Dover last year; Lillian Harrison of Buenos Aires, who likewise failed in 1925; Eva Morrison of Pictou, N. S., and Suzanne Wurtz, a former French champion. Three English women and one from Egypt complete the list.

Other Prospective Starters.

Ishak Helmy, the Egyptian giant, who rescued Gertrude Ederle and Lillian Harrison from the water on their unsuccessful attempts last year after they had collapsed, is included in the 1926 male entry. Norman Ross of Detroit, former amateur champion and record-holder, and Dick Howell, erstwhile Northwestern university swimming star, will be America's male entrants.

Omer Perrault of Canada, who failed two years ago; Jean Demieville of Geneva, Georges Michel and Georges Polley of France are other prospective starters.

Welcome for Sweetser

Jess Sweetser, shown in the photograph, was greeted with all the acclaim to which a conquering hero is entitled when he arrived home from England with the British amateur golf title in his possession. New Overland Whippet Car Is at Schryver's

First Showing in Kingston of New Type of Light Car Long Expected —An Adaptation of European Model to American Demands.

The new light car, the appearance of which has been hinted at and predicted for several months is here—right here in Kingston—and was "unveiled," so to speak, this morning at the salesrooms of the George J. Schryver Motor Car Co. on North Front street. It is the Overland Whippet on which the engineers of Willys-Overland, Inc., have been working, both here and in Europe, for the past two years.

This new car is totally different from anything ever seen before in this country. It looks different, it acts different and it serves a different but constanty increasing demand. Mechanically, it is an adaptation of the best that Europe has to offer in the way of powerful, economical engines, with a wide speed range, more powerful for climbing than has characterized even the best of the European productions, and with a flexibility, silence and smoothness of running which is new to our light car production.

It is a quality product in every detail from the trim, smart, extremely low hung body with its brilliant finish and superb upholstery to the last detail of its mechanical construction.

The sedan will travel 58 miles an hour, as easily and comfortably as most present day "sixes" and yet it is equipped with a four-cylinder motor.

It will accelerate from 5 to 25 miles an hour in ten seconds, or in just half a second more than some of the largest and most flexible "sixes" and it will cover 28 to 30 miles on a gallon of fuel.

It will stop in a little over twice its own length from an average driving speed for it is equipped with four wheel brakes, having a drum diameter of 11 inches which is larger than those on many of our large cars.

The motor develops 23 per cent more power, per cubic inch of piston displacement, than any other light four-cylinder motor built in America, this is one of the results of utilizing the European type of high speed motor design. It develops greater brake horsepower than any other light four-cylinder car in this country and yet it weighs just a little over 2,000 pounds, ready for the road. The power plant turns over 2,800 revolutions a minute and gives a developed power of 30.5 H. P. from an S. A. E rating of 15.6 H. P. The total piston displacement is 134.2 cubic inches, somewhat larger than that of the average European light car, but less than any other American built four-cylinder car.

The roof of this new type car is only 5 feet 8 inches from the ground yet the room inside the body is greater than in any other light car now on the market. A man of average height can stand alongside it at the curb and rest his arms on the top and look over it. But a six footer can sit in it with all the room he wants. In this respect it is thoroughly American and bears no relationship to its diminutively dimensioned European cousins.

Tire sizes present something entirely new, being 27 inches in diameter with a 4.40 inch cross section, and are of the balloon type. These are the smallest tires ever used as stock equipment but the tire makers have already anticipated a huge demand for this Overland Whippet and dealers are stocking these sizes at the present time.

It is the claim of the engineers that this size of tire on the Whippet will result in exceptionally long tire service and forecasts of as high as 20,000 miles to the set have been made.

If the claims of the engineers to from 28 to 30 miles from a gallon of fuel in average driving, are borne out in the hands of owners, this Whippet will reduce the gasoline consumption in the light car field from 40 per cent to 50 per cent and will serve the owner with that much more general satisfaction. There should be no reason to expect other than this high mileage from the fuel for it is being ordinarily obtained from European motors of similar design and the motor in the Whippet has measured up to every other standard of European construction.

The car may be examined and all questions regarding it answered at the salesrooms of the George J. Schryver Co. on North Front street, and it is well worth inspection by anyone interested in automobiles.

What Will Fourth Mean to You?

Accidents Increasing From Fireworks—Damages of Blank Cartridges and Poisonous Fireworks Pointed Out by State Health Commissioner Nicoll.

That the coming Fourth of July will result in thousands of persons being maimed or blinded for life while many others will die from lockjaw unless some curb is put on the sale of blank cartridge pistols and dangerous forms of fireworks, was the statement made by Dr. Matthias Nicoll, Jr., State Commissioner of Health, in a health talk broadcast from Station WGY on Friday evening.

Putting the question of a safe and sane Fourth squarely up to parents, Dr. Nicoll said: "Perhaps you think the picture I have painted has been overdrawn. If so, listen to the report of the United States Public Health Service for the last Fourth of July in the United States. Thirty-six states reported that 111 persons were killed and 1,030 injured as a result of celebrating the Fourth of July, 1925, with fireworks. Of these, 148 received injuries to one or both eyes and in a majority of cases the loss of sight. This is only the record of cases which come to public attention through hospital reports and otherwise. Thousands of such cases were doubtless treated in the home and never heard of outside of the immediate vicinity.

"Aside from burns, fatal or otherwise, which may be caused by any kind of fireworks, including the so-called innocent sparkler, what are the particular dangers of the 'old fashioned' Fourth of July?

Blank Cartridge Dangers.

"Perhaps the most common wound received as a result of celebrating the birth of our nation is that from the blank cartridge. The wad is usually blown into the fleshy tissues of the hand or arm, carrying with it whatever dirt may have accumulated on the skin, and not infrequently the germs of lockjaw which are ordinarily found in street dirt or garden soil. In such a wound this germ finds conditions best suited to its growth—namely, body heat and absence of oxygen. Unless the injured person is given tetanus antitoxin promptly by a competent physician, he may become the victim of lockjaw. If he waits for symptoms to develop it will frequently be too late for the antitoxin to have any effect.

"While deaths from tetanus in the state of New York are but one-third the number which occurred eighteen years ago, due undoubtedly to a more general use of tetanus antitoxin as a preventive, deaths from this disease as a result of Fourth of July accidents are increasing. It is rapidly becoming imperative that the state exercise some control over the sale and use of explosives which now constitute such a grave menace to life and limb.

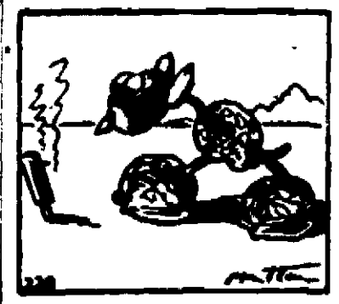
"Harmless" Fireworks Poisonous.

"In recent years a new kind of fireworks has come onto the market, under such fancy names as 'split-devil,' 'son-of-a-gun' or 'nigger-chaser.' These fireworks are usually set off by grinding under the heel on the pavement. Parents have been known to give such celebrating material to very young children thinking that here at least was something that was harmless. But what those parents did not know is that some of these preparations contain yellow phosphorus, a poison, enough of which may be left on the hands after handling to cause a very severe case of phosphorus poisoning. Young children have been known to eat them believing that they were candy, and have died of phosphorus poisoning.

"There seems to be a growing tendency not only to go back to the old fashioned way of celebrating the Fourth, but also to allow stores to sell fireworks days or even weeks before the 'big day.' One day with its many chances of injury should be enough. Rotary, Kiwanis, and other civic organizations whose membership consists of the leaders in the business and professional life can perform a valuable service to their communities by cooperating with health officers and other local officials in seeing to it that laws affecting this important matter are enacted and strictly enforced."

Nutty Natural History

By [illegible]



THE TRINIDAD KLOFF.

This interesting creature is found along the shallower reaches of the great natural asphalt lake in Trinidad, where the ingredients for various tooth pastes and shaving creams used by the hardboiled natives of that island are gathered. Ordinarily the large feet of the klopp support it very well on the treacherous surface of the lake, but when extremely hot weather melts the asphalt, it will stick fast. Its only hope of rescue in such a predicament is to inhale enough of the natural gas that bubbles up from the lake, and float itself off. Many klopps take too much gas and float over to the nearby coast of South America, where they are immediately devoured by the various opsies inhabiting the jungles.

The klopp in the picture is examing a thermometer to see if the lake is soft enough to take gas. His head is a filbert, and a single peanut answers for the body. The feet are halves of walnut kernels, the legs, neck, and tail are cloves, and for the ears, eyes, and nose, split peanut kernels, navy beans, and popcorn are used in the same order.

Odd "Beauty Stripes"

The women of Paraguay have marks on their faces like army stripes, to indicate rank. The pigment used consists of ashes mixed with blood, while the instrument is a sharp thorn. If a woman being tattooed cries out with pain she is told that she is a disgrace to her family and unworthy of a husband.

Derivation of Hangar

Hangar is an old French word, applied in country districts to the barn-like structures with a roof and open sides, used as rough shelter for stacks, carts and the like. It was in France that the problem of aircraft was first taken up generally, and so when airship sheds first began to be built they were naturally named after the nearest thing they resembled—the "hangars" of the French farmyards. —Pearson's Weekly.

To Clean Aluminum

A good way to clean aluminum vessels in which has been cooked oatmeal, rice or any food hard to remove, is to use a small corncob. The cob should be thoroughly moistened and not very large. It will be found just rough enough to catch and take off the particles of food but will not scratch the aluminum as many cleaning preparations do.

Heroism of Women

It is a part of the heroism of women to believe and suffer rather than to reason. Their instinct gives them their view of truth; they make fewer demands upon the mysterious realms. It is for the men to analyze, to dissipate, to define; to give a reasoned account of the truths by which we live.—Contemporary Review.

WOOD YOU?

Can you tell a community forest when you see one? It makes little difference whether you can or not; they all carry the same kind of wood. The point is in knowing where there should be a community forest and why. If you are in the woods about this, leaf through a bulletin on the subject which the Kingston Freeman has asked the State College of Agriculture to reserve for those who will fill in the coupon below. Anyone who is up a tree on the subject of communal woodlands should know what a woodlot would and where, not to speak of how many and how high. No tree is as bad as its bark—most are a lot better and the popular white pine, used largely for reforestation, has an annual ring that you can hear for years. Sign on the dotted line; there's no money involved now or later.

Please send me a copy of the bulletin "County, Town and Village Forests," F 40 which The Kingston Freeman has arranged to have sent to its readers who fill out this coupon very plainly, preferably in ink:

State Guaranty of Deposits Fail

Representative of American Bankers' Association Tells of Collapse of State Guaranty of Bank Deposits Movement.

Glenwood Springs, Colorado, June 26.—Pointing out the weaknesses of plans to guaranty bank deposits by state laws, Frank W. Simmonds, representing the American Bankers' Association, told the Colorado Bankers' Association convention here today of the rapid decline of the movement throughout the United States as brought out by a survey made by his organization.

"So-called state guaranty of deposit laws have been tried out and found wanting," Mr. Simmonds said. "The plan was wrongly christened at the start. It is not a guaranty but an insurance plan without the element of selective risk, entirely dependent upon the sufficiency of the premiums paid. Experience has shown the premiums are not sufficient and the insured are unable to afford higher premiums. The plan seemed so easy, so simple, so promising, that it reminds one of the allurement of the mirage.

Tendency Toward Repeal.

"The consensus from all sections shown by a survey of the State Bank Division of the American Bankers' Association is that the state guaranty of deposits is passing into eclipse so far as the extension of the idea is concerned. Notwithstanding that guaranty laws were recommended last year by governors of two states and introduced in several others all were defeated. In general, the tendency appears distinctly toward the repeal of this legislation.

"During the past twenty years, eight states enacted guaranty laws, beginning with Oklahoma in 1907 and followed by Kansas in 1909, Texas in 1910, Nebraska in 1911, Mississippi in 1914, South Dakota in 1915, and North Dakota and Washington in 1917. Oklahoma rescinded her law three years ago, leaving a large unpaid deficit. Last year South Dakota repealed its law and referred the repeal to the people for ratification at the next general election. Texas has modified her law, on account of state banks changing into national banks to escape the burden, so that they may choose between the guaranty system or a bond security plan.

Holds Banks May Withdraw.

"The Kansas law was rendered innocuous by a decision of the Supreme Court on April 12 to the effect that a bank may withdraw from the guaranty fund and escape any assessments beyond forfeiting the amount of bonds deposited with the state. It is reported that most of the banks plan to withdraw, which means that the state will have a little more than $1,000,000 with which to pay more than $3,000,000 of outstanding guaranty certificates.

"The fundamental weakness of the guaranty of deposits plan is that it is an attempt to create integrity and financial ability by legislative fiat. It tends to penalize prudent banking and to encourage reckless practices by reducing in the public mind all bankers, honest and dishonest, efficient and inefficient, to one common level.

Best Banking Safeguards.

"Bank failures are public calamities, and all agree banks must be made safe by some feasible means, based on sound principles. Banking experience has taught that the best safeguards are: banking intelligence, plus unyielding integrity, supplemented by careful supervision. Supervision that prevents failures is far more valuable to both depositors and stockholders than any plan of guaranty of liquidation after failure.

"As a preventive of bad banking, and as an antidote for the guaranty panaceas of the politician, I earnestly commend the clearing house system of examination. Clearing house associations in several hundred cities, towns and counties today constitute the chief line of defense against bad banking. They are the chief factor bringing about reforms in banking laws, improvement in banking methods and promotion of sound banking practices. The work of the clearing house associations is today a great constructive force in American banking. The extension of clearing house examinations is a great forward step in the solution of the problem of protecting bank deposits. The plan has been in operation twenty years and thoroughly tested. No depositor has ever lost a dollar in a bank under the supervision of the clearing house examiner system. The work of the clearing house examiner is continuous, not periodical, qualitative as well as quantitative and admirably supplements and coordinates the work of national and state examiners."

Valley Chapters At Po'keepsie

D. A. R. Council Listens to Interesting and Inspirational Talks by New State Regent and Others Who Discuss Important Topics.

On Thursday, June 24, the annual conference of the Hudson Valley Chapters of Daughters of the American Revolution was held at Poughkeepsie, Mahwenawsigh Chapter entertaining. Twenty-five members of Wiltwyck Chapter attended this council.

The visiting chapter members were received by Mahwenawasigh Chapter members at the Governor George Clinton House on Main street, where a reception was held from 11 to 12 o'clock.

This historic old mansion was erected prior to 1770 and was occupied by George Clinton during the American Revolution when Poughkeepsie was the capital of New York state.

It is filled with furniture and relics of great beauty and historic interest and affords a most interesting and delightful hour to the visitor.

After this reception the Poughkeepsie ladies and their guests went to the Vassar Alumni House where a social hour was enjoyed together with the great privilege of going through this most exquisitely appointed building and admiring the lovely garden.

At 12:45 the doors of the dining room were thrown open and as the ladies passed to their places at the most attractively set tables which were adorned with great vases of June flowers, the young men of two college crews, who are stopping at the Alumni House, sang in the outer room. A most delicious luncheon was served.

At two o'clock the council was called to order, Mrs. Hart, regent of the Poughkeepsie chapter, presiding. The meeting opened with the salute to the flag and after greeting the guests, Mrs. Hart introduced the new state regent, Mrs. Kramer.

Mrs. Kramer, addressing the meeting, spoke of the meaning of free speech. She said an organization in New York city had been asking the board of education to open the school buildings for meetings for free speech, meaning that anyone could get up and express any idea they had. They contended that if others as a result of these speeches committed murder or arson, the speakers were not responsible because they had not told them to do so. She impressed her listeners with the necessity for thinking Americans to clearly define what we mean by free speech and to make that definition very clear and positive to these people.

After Mrs. Kramer's address Mrs. Jemnick accompanied by Miss Gorse sang most pleasingly "The Flag We Love."

Mrs. Delaport, the state corresponding secretary and regent of Chancellor Livingstone Chapter, was the next speaker.

She told what their chapter plans to do next year and urged other chapters to work along the same line, namely to study local historic conditions. "Make a post card picture history of your community," Mrs. Delaport urged. "Things are constantly changing. Buildings interesting and useful at the time, are disappearing. Pictures of these will be both interesting and valuable to future generations."

Mrs. Delaport also had one of the most interesting reports of work for the past year, as the Rhinebeck Chapter have placed memorial gates at the entrance to Rhinebeck cemetery, dedicated in memory of our fathers who died to give us liberty and our sons who died to preserve it.

The Regents or representatives of eight other chapters gave interesting and encouraging reports.

Mrs. Jemnick sang admirably the Mahwenawasigh Chapter song.

Mrs. Newton D. Chaplain, chairman of the national committee on better films, asked for active cooperation from every chapter with a good committee on better films. She also spoke enthusiastically for the work of preservation of historic spots. She read a most informing paper on Valley Forge, describing all that has been done there, especially the Washington Memorial Chapel which the patriotic people of America are building with a tower to be built by the financiers of America, in memory of Robert Morris, the secretary of finance, during the Revolution. In the tower the Star Spangled Banner Chimes are to be placed. One bell from the Daughters of the American Revolution of each of the 13 original states.

Mrs. Chaplain urged all Daughters and all Americans who possibly could do so to visit the Sesquicentennial celebration in Philadelphia and to plan to spend at least a day at Valley Forge to receive that inspiration which only Valley Forge, the place hallowed by such fruitful prayer and suffering, can give.

Before the meeting adjourned Mrs. Delaport in behalf of Chancelor Livingstone Chapter invited the conference to meet at Rhinebeck on Flag Day 1927.

Question—When a frame building burns down, what is left? Answer—The chimney alone, because it is built of brick. Chimneys are built of brick because they are fireproof. Why not construct the whole building of brick, that is Real Fire Prevention. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. When you build, use brick exclusively. There may be a slight increase in first cost, but always a large saving in maintenance. Building brick and sand. TERRY BROTHERS CO. Tel. 1674.

HOWE ABOUT—

By ED HOWE

(Copyright by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

In a certain town a young man nineteen years old was arrested for burglary. His mother is prostrated with grief—I have known the mother and son a good many years. If ever a mother worked hard to ruin a son, this mother did. She was always saying he was all she had, and that she loved him as she loved her life. The neighbors knew the boy was worthless, and that the mother was largely responsible— You needn't say you know no such mother, for there are several living in your neighborhood.

I am not surprised that we humans do foolish things: that's life. If people were not foolish, God and his disciples would have nothing to fret about— What is a foolish thing? Anything that injures you. The first business of a man is to take care of himself: benefit himself: to feed and clothe himself as well as possible; to render himself as comfortable as possible. When you neglect any beneficial thing, you are foolish.

Not much can be accomplished with Spirituality, except its suggestion that Materialism be made a little more decent.

In one of his writings H. G. Wells speaks of the development of civilization as wonderful. . . . I do not see anything wonderful about it. Early man tried various things, adopted those that would work, and passed off the stage. Then his successors improved his processes, and in time their processes were improved. What is there wonderful about it? Is it not natural for man to seek the shortest and easiest methods? If a dog is lying in the sun, and it becomes too warm, he moves into the shade. . . . We finally learned to heat chilly houses, although you would blush to hear how long we were in learning of so simple a utility as a fireplace to carry smoke outside the room. . . . The real wonder is the long time we were in learning the simplest things. . . . And some of the simplest things we haven't learned yet. Look at the millions who still believe that the easiest way to get things is to steal them. Billions are yet to be converted to the simple, true doctrine that honesty is the best policy.

I do not advise you how to think; only to think honestly. . . . If you will think honestly and fairly, you are on the right road, to such reform as is within your reach.

How we exaggerate our ills! Except the flood, nothing was ever as bad as at first reported.

Sign Told the Truth

The blind mendicant, led by a dog on a string, has not been so much in evidence during the last few years, but the other day one of the clan took up a position on Girard avenue near Broad street.

He was fully equipped up to the old-time standard. His clothes were ragged, his tin cup was battered and the dog put on as dull and sleepy an appearance as his master. Fastened about the dog's neck was a placard bearing the appeal: "Please help the blind."

A man in passing attempted to toss a quarter into the cup, but it struck the edge and rolled out over the pavement. The "blind" man promptly made a dive for it and as his hand closed over the coin the surprised business man who had given it exclaimed: "What do you mean? You're an old faker and not blind a bit."

"Never said I was, mister," was the prompt reply. "It's the dog that's blind."—Philadelphia Record.

Not Appreciated

"My dear fellow," said John Clayton, "I wrote to a man who had sent me an abominable play, and said, 'My dear sir, I have read your play. Oh! my very dear sir! Yours truly, John Clayton.'"

I told this story on many occasions with great success. At last I told it to one who did not laugh. He was my secretary. It seemed to me hard, indeed, that one's own secretary should not laugh at one's funny stories. It appeared to me that he had mistaken his vocation, and I said in a tone of some irritation, "You don't seem to think that funny." Said he, "No, I don't. It was to me Mr. Clayton wrote that letter!"—From "A Player Under Three Reigns," by Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson.

N. Y. C. ISSUES PAMPHLET ON HUDSON VALLEY

Beautifully illustrated and replete with interesting descriptive matter of the historic Hudson Valley, a new pamphlet, for limited distribution, has been issued by the New York Central railroad, the only railroad that traverses this wonderful scenic region.

Views of the majestic river from Spuyten Duyvil bridge, where the first sight of the Palisades comes to the railroad traveler, from New York, all the way to Albany are contained in the pamphlet, with numerous illustrations of historic buildings, including Washington Irving's home, "Sunnyside," the old Dutch church at Sleepy Hollow, West Point and Vassar College.

Every line of reading matter is meaty with details of the history and literature that have been made in the Hudson Valley, while small colored maps assist the reader to locate the scenes described in the text. There are views of the Twentieth Century Limited speeding on its course along the river and of the engineering triumph known as the Alfred H. Smith Memorial Bridge, part of the $25,000,000 Castleton cut-off, as well as many others. Until the issue is exhausted, copies may be obtained by application to the Passenger Traffic Department of the New York Central Railroad, 466 Lexington avenue, New York city.

SAVING SEVEN SECONDS.

Their Loss at Grade Crossing May Save Fifty Years.

Expert railroad men tell us that it takes a fast railroad train an average of seven seconds to pass a crossing. Yet, according to reliable statistics, more than 7,000 automobilists were killed at grade crossings last year. They could not wait seven seconds.

It is difficult for the driver of a fast-moving automobile to gauge the relative speeds of his car and a swift train converging on the same point from different directions. Therefore there is only one rule to follow: Let the train go by.

What are seven seconds in the life of a motorist?

To lose them may be to save 50 years!—From the Houghton and Calumet (Mich.) Gazette.

Evander Childs Wins Trophy.

Chicago, June 26.—The baseball nine from Evander Childs High School, champions of New York city, were in possession of the W. W. Cohen Inter-City Championship Trophy today by virtue of their decisive victory yesterday over Lane Tech, Chicago title-holders. The score was 10 to 2. Frank Nelson, New York hurler, allowed only three hits.

25 Arrested in Madrid Plot

Madrid, June 26.—Despite government communiques to the contrary it became apparent today that the alleged plot against the government is not entirely squelched.

Officials of Ateneo, which was said to have been the centre of the plans for the revolt, met last night and refused to resign their functions as demanded by the government.

Senor Aguilera, former minister of war, has been arrested at Tarragona, near Valencia, on charges of attempting to stir up revolt in Valencia. He has been brought to Madrid.

Thirty-five arrests have been made in Madrid.

A government communique declares that the government will take drastic action to punish the plotters.

"A small number of blind persons, actuated by passion, ambition and jealousy, have tried for several weeks to organize a plot claiming a lack of liberty under the constitutional regime," said the government communique.

"The security police frustrated the scandalous affair. They had sufficient documentation to identify the persons attempting the absurd plot."

"The government's previous leniency permits energetic action this time," the communique continued.

"The diligence of the police prevented bloodshed which would have discredited the country abroad and weakened the authority of the government, which is necessary for the honor and prosperity of the nation.

"The conspirators included syndicalists, republicans, intellectuals with anarchist ideas and certain persons whose age and positions should have prevented them from participating in such a plot and a dozen discontented military men of rebellious character, who are a disgrace to the army.

"The government ordered the authorities to take measures of a personal and not general character and not to alarm the public, having absolute confidence in the people and the army.

"The plotters did not find the expected support. Only once in a century do the people and the army combine to effect a change of regime.

"The government will discipline the plotters with the hope that public opinion will approve the vigor with which the government maintains social tranquility."

BOBBY JONES SAILS FOR U. S. ABOARD THE AQUITANIA

Southampton, England, June 26.—"I will probably do a jig all the way across the Atlantic," said Bobby Jones, British Open Golf Champion, today when he boarded the S. S. Aquitania here, lugging the huge championship cup with him.

"Life seems most rosy to me just now but I haven't had time to give vent to my excitement."

Monotony of Waiting Too Much for Billy

It is hard for grownups to see things from a child's point of view, and to realize that our ideas of politeness must sometimes seem strange to him! The Woman had this fact brought to her notice the other day.

She was visiting a friend who has a small son. Billy had been sitting next his mother when the Woman entered the room, but at his mother's "run and play, dear," he retired to a corner with books and blocks. Presently, however, he returned and slipped into his little chair between the two ladies. The grownups continued to talk, and Billy, holding a book in his fat little hands, looked eagerly from one to the other in the hope that a pause in the conversation would give him a chance. Failing this, he presently laid a hand on the Woman's arm, "Excuse me," he said softly.

"Certainly, dear," replied the Woman, "what is it?"

"Nothing; I just wanted to speak to my mother a minute," answered Billy, and turning to her he spoke quickly, before the stream of adult conversation should start again. "I found that story about the kitten! You keep it and we can read it when this lady has to go."—New York World.
